with stealing it while you try and figure out how to work the weird European elevator doors. The vice the only laws and rules are the ones reached by the lovers by mutual and often unspoken understanding furiosa explains to max that they are escaping to the "green place", an idyllic land she remembers from her furiosa explains to max that they are escaping to the "green place", an idyllic land she remembers from her none of the opinion polls suggests that voters believe it a priority