It also brought a large part of the south of England to a standstill and caused "chaos in central London" and had a subsequent government enquiry.

It typically lasts 12-36 hours, but can go longer.